HLTAID009 Provide cardiopulmonary resuscitation

Initial Training

This unit describes the skills and knowledge required to perform cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) in line with the Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) Guidelines.

This unit applies to all workers who may be required to provide CPR, in a range of situations, including community and workplace settings.

Target Learner

This initial training is intended for students who have no prior training or experience.

Entry requirement

Students need to be at least 18 years old and be physically able to satisfactorily perform at least 2 minutes of uninterrupted single-rescuer cardio-pulmonary resuscitation (CPR) made up of 5 cycles of both compressions and ventilations. This activity involves kneeling on the floor.

Delivery mode and duration

This unit of competency requires attendance at a face to face training session and completion of practical assessment tasks.

The training session takes 4 hours including the practical assessment tasks which requires the ability to provide resuscitation and respond to an emergency situation where there may be risk to life.

One requirement of the training package is that you are to be assessed as physically capable of performing uninterrupted CPR for at least 2 minutes on an adult resuscitation manikin placed on the floor; including the demonstration of a rotation of operators with minimal interruptions to compressions. There can be no exceptions to this requirement.

Learning Resources

The learning resources for this course are:

- Training Manual
- Australian Resuscitation Council (ARC) Guidelines

Language, Literacy and Numeracy Level Required

Students are required to complete a short language, literacy and numeracy test as part of their enrolment.

The Unique Student Identifier

When you are studying nationally recognised training you are required to have a Unique Student Identifier (USI). Your USI links to an online account that contains all your training records and results that you have completed from 1 January 2015 onwards. We can assist you to obtain a USI if required.
